League Group Opposes Sales Tax; Suggests Women Pay Poll Tax

A group has met six times in November and December with the Government in Operation chairman of the League of Women Voters, to study taxation in Massachusetts.

The outline prepared by the State chairman, Mrs. Fritz Marx, was invaluable and the interest aroused by it was evidenced by the enthusiasm of the members in investigating and reporting on very difficult tax problems.

The first meetings were given to a study of the Massachusetts Tax system and tests of a good tax system. Then came the study of special taxes.

The first conclusion was that the subject is one requiring much more consideration than could be given in six meetings, but the group offers the following suggestions. As public welfare expenses are bound to increase for a few years and extra revenue must be secured, we suggest working for: 1. A study of reorganization of state and municipal government with a view to coordination and economy; 2. A constitutional amendment to permit a graduated income tax; 3. A poll tax on women; 4. An excise on registered trailers in lieu of a local tax; 5. An increased tax (making 4 cents) on each gallon of motor fuel, to be used for public welfare. This tax to be repealed if a graduated income tax is adopted.

The general sales tax was considered and the group as a whole agreed with the league stand in opposing it, as not fulfilling the tests of a good tax, largely because it falls heaviest on those least able to pay.

The members of the group were: Ruth Baker, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Joseph Burns, Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. Hurley, Mrs. Little; Mrs. Leavitt, Mrs. Pray, Mrs. Gilcreast, Mrs. Brimer, Miss Putnam, Mrs. Merrick, Mrs. Poynter, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Rafton, Mrs. J. Rockwell, Mrs. Tyer, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Chickering, and Laura Smith.

Hearing Held On License Appeal

A hearing on James Heifetz's appeal from the board of selectmen's decision which removed his beer license was held before the Alcoholic Beverages Commission in Boston Tuesday afternoon.

Present were Selectmen Shepard, Collins and Hardy; town clerk George H. Winslow; sergeant Ray Hickey; Mr. Heifetz; his counsel, senator-elect Thomas J. Lane; John Leary; Louis Scanlon, Arthur Heifetz, Charles Hoffman and Joseph DeAcutis, the last four being licensees.

Selectman Shepard did most of the speaking for the town, with Mr. Heifetz defending himself at intervals during the chairman's talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kennedy have moved from Harding street to Essex street.

Do Your Bit For The Christmas Baskets

Have you made your contribution for the Christmas baskets for your less fortunate townspeople?

Last Christmas, about 120 baskets were sent out by various organizations in town of which 90 were packed by the Red Cross. Each basket represents one family and many of the families are large. The baskets are not packed for one meal alone but contain supplies to feed the families for a few days. The need this year is at least as great as it was a year ago.

To carry on this work, a large sum of money is necessary in order to buy meat and other perishables. Boxes have been placed in many of the stores to receive your contributions or you may send them directly to Mr. Philip Ripley, Abbot street.

Donations of canned goods and other staple foods, also necessary, may be placed in the barrels in the grocery stores.

The baskets will be packed in the South Church vestry on Thursday, December 22. Donations should be in by the Wednesday before Christmas. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Roscoe Duke.

WELFARE CLUB MEETS

The General Welfare Club met at the home of Mrs. Joseph G. Dennis, 8 Maple avenue, on Thursday evening. A large number were present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George York, Summer street, where a turkey supper will be served for members only. Addresses will be given by two prominent speakers.

Snow Removal Fund Again Nil

If it's a white Christmas in Andover, it may be very, very white. Apparently no money can be spent for removing the snow until the selectmen declare an emergency, and it is a question as to just how severe a snowfall has to be before it can be called an emergency.

Last Thursday night the Board of Public Works invited the selectmen, finance committee, town counsel and selected representatives of the Taxpayers' association to a meeting to discuss the problem. In immediate results the meeting only had one: the decision on the part of the finance committee to transfer another $540 to take care of snow removal bills which were in excess not only of the original appropriation but of transfer number one. At present the department is without funds for snow removal, the reserve fund is so far depleted that it cannot be counted on any longer as a source of money, and the only recourse now is to have the selectmen declare an emergency, which they will not do until they see an emergency.

Goldsmiths Postponed

At noon today Principal Hamblin announced the postponement until early January of the Goldsmith speaking contest scheduled for tomorrow night. Two speakers are confined to their home with illness.

If Myles Standish
Had Really
Won the Hand of
Priscilla Alden

Andover might not be so fortunate as it is today with a real Cape Cod Jelly Store opening at 50 Main Street where S. K. Ames used to be.

It seems that when John Alden finally spoke for himself back in the 1620's, Myles Standish, renounced by Priscilla, married Anne, she of Epicurean tastes, a woman who wandered the by-paths of old Cape Cod to garner fruits and berries which she preserved for the enjoyment of her children and her children's children. Mistress Anne kept her prized recipes in a notebook which today is in the possession of Anne Standish Clifton, ninth granddaughter of Myles and Anne, president of Cape Cod Farms, Inc.

Now in the new Andover store, you are able, thanks to the heirloom recipe book, to purchase Cape Cod delicacies "with the tang of the sea still on them."

Shall We Save $4200?

A saving of $4200 on an expenditure of $7100 is something that the ordinary businessman would grab at with little delay. That same possibility the school board now has before it, and at its next meeting, the first week in January, it will take action one way or the other on closing two of the outlying schools to effect this saving.

A few years ago the board considered closing the North school, which then had but nine pupils, but there was such a storm of protest that the board decided to forget it. Since then the school has grown, and now has about 20 pupils, and yet this increase does not necessarily justify the board's action or lack of action two or three years ago. If a group of pupils, whether there be 9 or 29, can be educated at less cost and with better results elsewhere, the board owes it to the town and to the children to close the school.

There will probably be protests again this time, especially so since the question now is not only closing the North school but also the West Center school. There were protests when the Bailey and Osgood schools were closed, but there is no doubt that the town saved money in doing this. In the present question there are very definite savings possible, mainly because of a drop in enrollment in elementary grades which has left the elementary staff overmanned. It would mean dropping a couple of teachers, and that requires courage on the part of a board. It would mean voting against the wishes of the parents who prefer to have their children taught nearer home, and that too requires courage.

It has been reported that the children, some of whom now have to work under a teacher who has six grades to teach, would receive a better education if they were transported to the Shawsheen or Indian Ridge schools where the teachers would be better able to give their grades the individual treatment they need. This argument cannot be contraverted. If something costs a little more, and the children were to get a better education, there is no doubt what action the school board would take: they would immediately vote to do it.

If the school board closes these two schools, it will mean that the children, who are the primary concern, will be getting more and the town paying less. Obviously then the course of action is clear. The board must summon up its courage, make the decision to close up the schools and then carry out the various savings that this closing up will mean.

A Man At Twelve

There's a little red-headed fellow with a cheery smile over at the Lawrence General Hospital today. On Tuesday afternoon he wasn't in the hospital; he was leading a normal boy's life, playing with his playmates up Elm street way.

Donald O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Connor of 2 Florence street, an eighth grade pupil at St. Augustine's, was with a group of chums playing with B-B rifles in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Quill of 51 Elm street when the tragedy occurred which made it necessary for Dr. East to send the little boy to the hospital right away. Late Tuesday night it was finally decided that nothing could be done to save the youngster's right eye, badly injured by a B-B pellet.

Faced with the loss of one eye, Donald, with only eleven years of life behind him, proved that he was a man. With unflinching loyalty to his playmates, he refused to tell who fired the rifle: "Don't ask me any more, please; it was my own fault, because I walked right in front of it!"

Donald will have a handicap in life, but he's got something that will lick any handicap: Courage and a Smile.

Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Folk of 73 Chestnut street are winter guests at Bradenton, Florida.

Baptist Preaching Mission Continues

The evangelistic services in progress in the Baptist Church are proving highly interesting and impressive. The effective preaching of Rev. Vaughan Dabney on Tuesday night and Rev. Edwin B. Dolan on Wednesday night placed the meetings on a very high plane of religious significance and importance. The singing of the Andover Male Choir contributed most effectively to the value of the service on Tuesday night. The Baptist Sextet was also well received Wednesday night.

On the two remaining nights of the mission the congregation will hear Rev. Ambrose M. Bailey, D.D., pastor of the First United Baptist Church of Lowell tonight; and Rev. W. T. Murphy, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church, Reading on Friday night. The two regular choirs of the church will sing on these last occasions. Friday night is young people's night in the series, when Mr. Murphy, President of the State Christian Endeavor Organization, speaks. The services held at 7:30 o'clock are open to the public.

Cape Cod Jelly Shop Opens Here

Those who frequented the Cape this summer probably noticed a number of little one-room Cape Cod cottages, and if they stopped to investigate further, they probably found that in those cottages were sold jellies, jams, preserves, marmalades and relishes "with the tang of the sea still on them." Today one of these Cape Cod Jelly shops opened in Andover, not in a cottage, but in part of the shop which formerly housed the S. K. Ames store at 50 Main street.

The products themselves come from Cape Cod Farms, Inc., Barnstable, Mass. The president of the company is Anne Standish Clifton, ninth granddaughter of Captain Myles Standish. The original Anne Standish back in the 1600's seemed to be famed for her jellies, and the recipe book which she left behind her forms the basis for the present growing industry. Jordan Marsh in Boston has featured the products in its windows and ads, and has done very well with them. One of the well-known customers of the firm is the White House at Washington.

Among the Northwestern University students who are planning to come home for the holidays is Elizabeth N. Perry of 21 Elm street.

Abbot Academy Notes

Plans for the appropriate celebration of Christmas have been in the making now for some weeks. During the Friday evening hobby hour Seniors have been gathering together, armed with needle, thread and shears, and, accompanied by the radio or the reading of Christmas stories, have dressed dolls of all sizes and descriptions for the children of the Hindman Settlement in Kentucky.

On Saturday afternoon fifty Andover children will be the guests of the Abbot Christian Association at their annual Christmas party in Davis Hall. It is rumored that Santa Claus has already accepted his invitation to be present. After dinner on Saturday, Mrs. Bertha Morgan Gray, teacher of speech and coach of all school plays, will read to the whole school, Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

The traditional Christmas Vespers will be held in Davis Hall on Sunday at 7:30 o'clock. Friends of the school are cordially invited and urged to be present. The service will end, as usual, with a short program of organ music, played by Mr. Walter E. Howe, of the music faculty.

On Monday evening a gala dinner with Christmas trees bearing lighted candles on each table, and all the other symbols of the glad Christmas season, will mark the close of the fall term, and will herald the vacation season which will begin Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Fund Again Nil

The public works board called the meeting to ask just what the assembled group felt should be done on snow removal. The general opinion of most of those present seemed to be that too much money had been spent on this item. During the evening mention was made of the 94 hours worked by one man in one week and the more than 70 hours worked by others. In defense of this superintendent Gilliard declared that these men were hired to run expensive machinery, with reference mainly to the man who runs the Iron Mike. The many calls received on the telephone after storms were mentioned, but the opinion was expressed that no matter how many calls were made, no more should be spent than was appropriated.

Some reference was made to the doing of private work. Apparently, however, this has been eliminated.

Despite obviously distraught feelings which broke through the surface at times, a pretty clear understanding of the problem was afforded those present. One question was raised as to whether the board could use some unexpended balances from other accounts, but town counsel Sweeney stated that this is not legal. At one point, after the selectmen stated that they did not feel any emergency existed at that time, a member of the board averred that it looked as if The Feller who put the snow there would have to remove it.

ARE YOU DRINKING OIL OR FISH?

Some say it tastes fishy; some say it tastes oily; few say it tastes like water. Having received numerous complaints about the taste in Andover's water for the past few weeks, chairman Franklin H. Stacey checked with the state department of health this week. The state officials reported that there was nothing to worry about, that the combination of unusually high water and a few cold spells had disturbed the water at the bottom of the pond.

Community Christmas Party In Village

An adult Community Christmas party of the residents of Shawsheen Village will be held in the Crystal Ballroom on Haverhill street on Monday evening at eight. An interesting program is planned, and F. M. and T. E. Andrew and the Andover Shawsheen Realty Company have generously donated the Crystal Ballroom and Roland Russell's full orchestra for the full enjoyment of the festivities. There will be modern dancing, and old-fashioned square dancing, as well as community singing and Christmas carols.

There will be no charge for admission, but a small amount will be asked to cover the cost of refreshments. ## C. E. Mother

Marks Birthday

Friends of Mrs. Francis E. Clark, "Mother Christian Endeavor," were interested to see in a Boston paper last week an item telling of the celebration of her 88th birthday on Saturday, December 10.

While not born in Andover, she came here as a child with her brothers and sisters and her mother, the well remembered Mrs. Sarah F. Abbott. Her father, the Rev. Sereno Timothy Abbott, was a native of Andover, having been born in the homestead now occupied by S. H. Bailey, Porter Road. She attended Punchard school, graduated at Abbot Academy, and taught in the public schools of Andover. Here she met Francis E. Clark, a student at Andover Theological Seminary, married him and was an enthusiastic help to him in his work as a pastor and as the founder of the Society of Christian Endeavor. Since his death, she has continued to live in Newton, and still keeps an active interest in C.E., writing many letters to friends in many lands and making her friends welcome to her home in her own cheery way.

4-H LEADER HONORED

Miss Frances Hartmann of Elm street was recently elected to the Executive board of the Essex County 4-H Leaders' Association.

Miss Hartmann has done outstanding work in the 4-H field and has received numerous prizes and honors. She is the leader of the "Do-It-Well" 4-H Club, which meets every Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Atty. Anna M. Greeley of Andover, an alumna of Portia, attended the Portia Alumnae and undergraduate dinner at the Boston City Club recently. The purpose of the dinner was to raise $1,000,000 for a new building for Portia Law School and College of Liberal Arts which, with the permission of Mrs. Grace Coolidge, will be named for the late President Calvin Coolidge, who as Governor of Massachusetts in 1910, signed the Portia Charter giving it the power to grant de-

Norwood first vice-commander of the Methuen post, was the installing officer, and his installing sergeant-at-arms was James Anderson, Sr., second vice-commander of the same post.

Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party of the A.P.C. Sorority will be held this evening in the South Church vestry.

Mrs. G. Richard Abbott will be in charge of the entertainment which will consist of readings, dramatizations, and singing of carols, both from our land and other lands.

It is hoped that everyone will bring a gift that may be given to someone less fortunate. Anything for both old and young will be appreciated as a box will be packed and sent to Miss Evelyn Hardy at Five Points, Alabama, to be distributed among her people.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting with Miss May Elander as chairman.

To Address Club

"Vanishing New England," a title chosen in pre-hurricane days, and hence more opportune than was realized at the time of its selection, will be the subject of Miss Helen G. Mank's talk at the next meeting of the November club on Monday afternoon, December 19th. Colored photographs which have been taken by Miss Mank and her sister, Miss Edith W. Mank, will be shown on the screen, pictures of lovely bits of typical New England scenery and particularly of things which are fast vanishing from our landscape.

Mrs. Taylor's next lecture on "History in the Making" takes place on Wednesday morning, December 21 at 9:45.

Miss Helen Tower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Tower of Phillips street, a senior at Wellesley College, is a member of the college orchestra playing the violin. This is her second year in that organization. ### Some Interested In Becoming Citizens

Carl Lindsay, appointed by superintendent of schools Henry C. Sanborn to make contacts with the reported 400 aliens in Andover to see if they would be interested in studying to become citizens, has been busy the past week on the new job. Up to yesterday he had seen 155 persons and of these 36 said they were interested.

Classes are being held at the high school three nights a week, town and state sharing in the cost of instruction.

ANDOVER DROPS OUT OF STATE COMPETITION

It looked for a while Sunday as if a game twice-postponed would have to be replayed. For two weeks the Andover soccer team and the Bird and Son team of East Walpole had been trying to play off their first round game in the state cup competition but snow and soggy grounds had prevented it. With a cloudy cold day Sunday the two finally started out, but with just a few minutes to play the teams were deadlocked at two all. Then from a goal-front scrimmage Frederickson of the visitors booted one in past Lee to give the Bird and Son outfit the game. Lack of aggressiveness in the forward line was demonstrated by the local team.

Adventurers' Play Reaction Varied

An advance notice on the Adventurers' program Tuesday night read: "In Mid-April the Adventurers will present 'The Middle Watch,' a farce comedy..."—and these three little words at the end proved very interesting to those who had come to see "The Wind and The Rain," for the play chosen for the winter production proved very uninteresting.

The redeeming feature of the whole play was that the actors, for amateurs, did on the whole a fine piece of acting on something that was very difficult because it allowed for so little acting. If you can do a little chasing around on a stage, it's not hard to give a good performance, but when your part requires nothing but talking, talking and more talking, it is hard to put yourself across to the audience. In this play the only one who had an opportunity to act was Mabel Marshall, in the character role of a boarding-house mistress, Mrs. MacFie, and an excellent job she did. The two leads, Bartlett Hayes and Irene Morgan, had little else to do than talk, making it necessary for them to try to put their characters across by their facial expressions. But here again they did well for amateurs in difficult parts. Down through the whole cast, the story was the same, all doing their best on something that was hard because of the play.

Shawsheen P. T. A. Has Guest Night

The Andover and Ballardvale Parent-Teacher associations were guests of the Shawsheen group at the annual guest night last night. Rev. Dr. C. Guy Robbins told the Christmas story, and the Lothrop Bell-Ringers of Beverly rendered some folk songs and Christmas carols on the bells.

Refreshments were served by the second and fourth grade, with Mrs. Walter Caswell, Mrs. Frank Rodalvick, Mrs. Walter Webster and Mrs. Harold Eastwood, Mrs. Willis Symonds was in charge of the program. Henry Todd was responsible for the decorations and Harold Phinney for the loud-speaking arrangements.

Xmas Seal Sale Below 1937 Figure

The Christmas Seal Sale has now been in progress since the day after Thanksgiving. Returns are being made in Andover to Mrs. Henry S. Hopper, chairman, but in order to surpass last year's sale many more returns must be made. To date the local committee reports that the returns are slightly below the figures of last year at the same time.

Most of the letters sent on November 25th contained 200 of these penny seals in two sheets, and people who can afford all are appealed to, to purchase the entire 200. Amounts from a penny up will be appreciated and will help to raise Andover's total.

Communications

Dear Editor:

In every community in America, the Taxpayer's Friend stands out like a shining light in the darkness of night. He is methodical, he is trustworthy, he is quiet and works with no whizz bangs to announce his presence.

He is often the bearer of the mistakes of sound judgment and foresight. He is usually found full of common sense and patience. He is what is called the forgotten man, because his efforts to help the Taxpayer are often unnoticed and unsung. To him belongs the badge of merit and honor. But unfortunately he never has them bestowed upon him. He is not a snooper into the minute things. He is the master of those little bits of detail which are so important to the American community, such as keeping the water supply running or keeping our streets clean and our sewers in good working order. He is the average citizen, often the victim of abuse by interferences who often feel their own importance, which is indeed to be pitied.
